Knew Comedian's "Spoof;" Bars Prince and Duke

London, England, Nov. 23 .- A certain omedian was taking the crown prince of Greece and the duke of Sparta about showing them life in London during their recent visit. After seeing most of the sights he brought them to a Night club in Soho to finish up, and, filled with importance by the greatness

"My dear so and so, I am bringing as guests touight the crown prince of Greece and the luke of Sparta; I will Greece and the luke of Sparta; I will present them to you."

"Go on George," said the secretary.
"I know your little game. None of your princes and princesses for me, they can't come in."

"Don't be such a bally ass," cried the comedian. "I tell you it is all right, they are the real thing."

"Rats!" replied the secretary, "I know your spoof. They don't come in here."

Lord Strathcona Has More Homes Than Any Other English Peer

Condon, England, Nov. 12.—Lord Strathcona has returned from Scotland to London. Much has been written on this veteran of 93, but not everyone knows that he has more residences than any other peer in the United Kingdom. They are nine in number, and besides his house in Grosvenor Square, include country places in England and Scotland, and stately homes in Montreal, Winnipeg and Nova Scotla. And no one knows which of these addresses will find him, as he is always on the move in trains and liners.

Certainly lord Strathcona has more than his share of interesting recollections. When Donald Smith, aged 18 years, left his home in Scotland, and sailed for Canada, queen Victoria had just been crowned, the first steamship was preparing to cross the Atlantic, and there was no Dominion of Canada. There were no railways, and the vast region controlled by the Hudson Bay company was the great lone land of adventure. And into this wilderness went Donald Smith, as a penniless lad in 1838 and he is now a hero, a statesman, a millionaire and a nonagenarian.

The minister of justice has introduced into the Imperial Duma a bill making the refusal of help to persons and ships in need of assistance at sea a punishable offence. The bill, which has been introduced in consequence of the resolution of the Brussels conference held after the Titanic disaster, is an amplication of that resolution. It provides that captains who fail to render help shall be liable to from two to sixteen months imprisonment, and empowers the court to prohibit guilty parties from serving at sea for periods up to five years.

The Standard for Baking Powders the World Over is an Absolutely Pure, Cream of Tartar Baking Powder

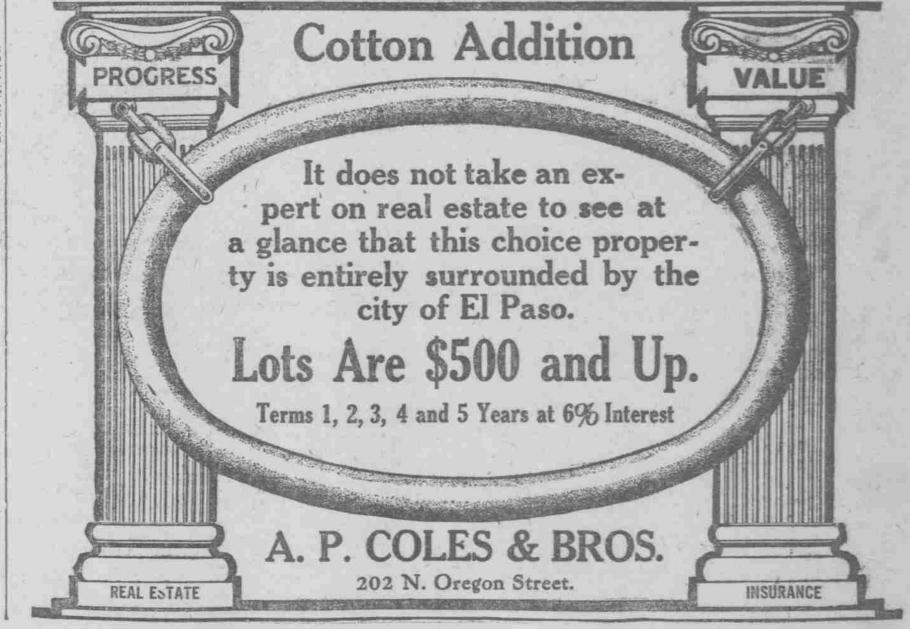

REAM OF TARTAR is the crystallized acid of grapes refined to absolute purity and ground to a creamy flour. It is declared by physicians the most wholesome of all fruit acids, and has been proved by long and universal experience the most efficient and satisfactory for baking purposes.

Highly refined products of the grape, properly combined with bicarbonate of soda and a little corn starch to absorb atmospheric moisture, are the sole ingredients of the ideal, high-class, standard baking powder.

Many acids have been tried during the last hundred years to find a substitute for the grape cream of tartar which would cost less. In recent years alum, which makes a baking powder at a cost of two cents a pound, has been used because of its trifling cost. Alum, however, has been disapproved by scientific chemists and physicians and is not employed by manufacturers of high-class powders.

Cream of tartar powders being healthful themselves, add to the healthfulness of the food.
